

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION

On page 16, lines 16-17, delete-- (Table 2 shows the commands used in this example of this embodiment.) ---. The paragraph in the boxed area should read:

A

This is a command to the binary editor. ~~(Table 2 shows the commands used in this example of this embodiment.)~~ Here, the editor is commanded to change the program code at absolute address 382332 and change the string "ABCDEFGH", to the string "HIJKLMNOPQRST." The # is an optional end of command symbol, used to help understand the command line, such as where the command lines might be especially long, for example.
